COMMUNITY

The greatest way to help advance this cash-based practice model is to get your name out there. The business model will do the rest. I'm not kidding when I say all I do is show up and unlock the door. With that said, do you need to get involved with your community? No, you do not, but I think it's very important to take this extra step. There's no need for having to get involved, but it's nice to support your community and I do that with different types of donations to our local schools and clubs.

A good place to start is your local Chamber of Commerce. It is a great place to network but also a good way to give back to participate in the small business community.
