Most chiropractors have staff, so therefore they have someone in the treatment room with them as a witness. Since I do not have staff, this could be a great liability for me when treating patients. You never know who's going to walk through your doors for treatment and why. I treat on an average of 140 New Patients per month and I bet you half of them have never been to a chiropractor, so therefore they don't know what to expect. Meaning that they may not know that body contact is a normal procedure during an adjustment, with that said, it's important to explain in detail to every new patient what you are doing and if they at any time feel uncomfortable, please let you know.

One of the greatest assets to this model is there's no staff, but we still need to protect ourselves from any false accusations. How? I purchased and installed a security camera in my treatment room. This way I'm protected as well as the patient. The camera runs 24/7 and if I ever get accused of something I can rewind the footage and download it to a USB and give it to the proper authorities. You can not be too safe.

Before I installed the camera, I had to get it cleared through the Texas Board of Chiropractic Examiners. I hired an attorney who thoroughly researched the laws and HIPPA. It turns out that in the State of Texas it is legal as long as you follow some guidelines which include:

1. Must be posted outside the treatment room.
2. Must be included in you consent form.
3. There must be NO disrobing in treatment room.
4. The video must NOT be audible.

The sign I have posted outside the treatment room reads; "Attention, for you and Dr. Scot's protection, all treatment is under video surveillance." Not one patient has ever said one negative comment about it, in fact they applaud me for it. Protect yourself and your future as a chiropractor.
